Slate grey sofas and pendant lighting help to create a relaxing breakout area for staff

TECHSTARS

Office Profile were approached by existing client Techspace, who asked for us to refurbish their 5th floor office area for a new tenant, TechStars. TechStars is a global ecosystem that helps entrepreneurs build great businesses.

The whole floor was open plan, with the breakout area, kitchenette and main working area all together. The floor included light wood effect flooring, slate grey sofas, and picnic benching table for casual working or eating space. An assortment of black and white faux leather chairs with a small table in the middle were arranged over in the corner for less formal meetings

The main working area is filled with bays of white "A" frame desks with black operator chairs. As each desking area is occupied by a different company, LED strip boards were inventively utilised to scroll the company name while hanging from the ceiling. This enables visitors and staff to find a person within a company easier and adds a modern twist to the floor.

'Shake The World' manifestation helps to motivate and brighten up this area of the floor

A black gloss kitchen provides a unique contrast when paired with wooden worktops

Additional seating area for informal meetings or for use as a breakout space

There are 2 meeting rooms at TechStars, each with a striking dot manifestation of women's faces. This adds some aesthetic appeal to the end of the office, while providing privacy for those using the meeting rooms. Both meeting rooms have boardroom style tables with stylish tub seats along with a TV mounted on the wall for presentations.
